Mastering the Art of Technical Writing

Employees will uncover the secrets to creating professional, easy-to-understand technical documents

INOVIES Documentation Services

The quality of the product depends on the maturity of the process. Years of experience has taught us the importance of planning the roadmap for documentation to achieve the desired quality standards. Based on the needs of the customers, we customize and design our development process.

Online Help Systems

With their simple point-and-click interface, Online Help Systems are now a requirement for most user-friendly software applications. Users navigate through Windows / Browser-based tutorials and manuals by clicking custom icons and hypertext, jumping from section to section with ease.

We can create an Online Help System that supports context sensitivity, embeds movies and sounds, runs under Windows, or is accessed through a browser.

End-User Documentation

We will design, author, and illustrate all of your end-user documentation. We can start from the ground up, or we can prepare a new document from existing material and artwork.

We will prepare your documents in virtually any size and format so they are ready for the printer or for online distribution which includes User Manuals, Online Help, Installation guides, Quick reference guides, Datasheets, Product marketing collaterals, etc

Software Documentation

INOVIES has extensive experience writing software life cycle documentation, including Functional Requirements Specifications, User Requirements Documents, Requirements Documents, Use Cases, Design Documents including UML based models, Testing Documentation, and Design Specification.

To prepare these documents, we can use available development notes or interviews with system architects and engineers to get the information we need. If required, we can also reverse-engineer product code.
