November 2009 to Present

I have formed a small company with 30 programmers, designers and computer engineers, Datatech Genius, <https://www.datatechgenius.com/> . I've spent the last six years working, as project manager on a variety of projects. I enjoy the responsibility leading a small development team and seeing projects through conception to project delivery. I believe that my strong background as a software project manager, combined with my team work and extensive experience in planning, executing, monitoring, and closing a variety of projects, makes us suited to this role. I am highly organized and self-motivated, have excellent communication skills, and thrive in high-pressure environments. A solid team player, I work to tight deadlines and has plenty of initiative.
