Profile

I'm a Full-Stack Web Developer with rich experience building modern, scalable web applications using React, Next.js, Node.js, Python, Django, and Laravel. I specialize in integrating AI tools like OpenAI's ChatGPT, automating workflows through custom scripts, and creating real-time experiences with socket programming. From pixel-perfect UIs with Tailwind CSS to backend APIs and web scraping, I deliver clean, efficient, and reliable solutions for businesses and startups alike.

Experienced in collaborating with multidisciplinary teams to drive innovative solutions within agile environments. Skilled at integrating TypeScript and third-party APIs to enhance code quality and operational efficiency, coupled with a strong background in strategic research and product development to support business growth.

Resourceful and detail-oriented software developer with a solid foundation in computer science, specialised in frontend development using modern JavaScript frameworks. Adept at optimising application performance and usability through innovative coding practices and effective cross-team collaboration. Demonstrates strong analytical skills and a commitment to continuous learning to leverage emerging technologies and contribute to long-term project success.
