.Net core Developer / Dot Net Developer

Islamabad, Pakistan

I am employed as a Full Stack .Net Developer at a software development company, where I work on multiple projects, actively participating throughout the entire project lifecycle. My role involves the development and maintenance of software solutions, ensuring the successful delivery of high-quality projects within set timelines. My responsibilities extend to managing the entire project lifecycle, from requirement analysis to design, implementation, testing, and deployment. I collaborate closely with cross-functional teams to ensure that our projects meet their objectives and are delivered on time. I take pride in my problem-solving skills and my commitment to delivering high-quality solutions that are both reliable and scalable. This experience has honed my ability to navigate the challenges of diverse projects in the software development industry.
